

PLUG INTO LIVING - LEARNING COMMUNITIES

Living-Learning Community (LLC) Courses

Required LLC courses vary from one community to another and from year to year. They always include one or two semesters of an LLC Colloquium, a one-credit-hour course in which residents explore topics related to the LLC theme. In the four LLCs listed below, residents also take one or two three-credit-hour LLC courses, usually inside the residence hall. Some examples of three-credit-hour courses offered recently in those communities:

Bryan Hall Learning Community

When Culture and Business Collide:
Communication in an International Context
Research, Genre, and Context
Understanding America: Hemingway in a World of Discredited Values and Traditions
Trilobites to T. Rex: History of Life on Earth
Guns, Drugs, and Slaves: The History of Trafficking in the Modern World
Introduction to Philosophy
Nationality, Race, and Ethnicity in the U.S.

Debates About the Past: Greek Civilization, History and Culture
Sociology of Law and Hispanics
Human Nature: Modern and Contemporary Perspectives
Freshman Composition
The History of the United States to 1877
Introduction to Shakespeare
Philosophy in Literature
The Modern World Since 1815

Global and Public Affairs Learning Community

American Foreign Policy in the 21st Century
Contemporary Issues in U.S. Politics

Introduction to Economics
Social Problems

Music Living-Learning Center

Class Piano
Music Theory

Sight Singing and Ear Training
Survey of Music Literature

Social Justice Learning Community

Leadership for Social Justice

Social Responsibility: Rhetorically Speaking